

HUNTERS INN

Purchased by the National Trust in 2018, Hunter's Inn in North Devon lies at the heart of 2,000 acres of land that the Trust already cares for. The property features 10 en-suite bedrooms, alongside a bar and restaurant, as well as Heddon Lodge, a fully accessible two-bedroom self-catering apartment. There are Mobility Trampers available from the rangers' office nearby to enjoy one of the easy access routes down to Heddon's Mouth beach.

Originally a thatched cottage, the building was reconstructed in the "Swiss Style" at the height of the Victorian Era, it is set within four acres of landscaped gardens, which form an idyllic backdrop for weddings and family events.

Hunter's Inn sits alongside a collection of 39 outstanding pubs and restaurants across the country owned by the National Trust, many of which have been designated historically significant. Moving forward, every pint, meal and stay enjoyed at Hunter's Inn will help to look after the valley's wildlife and contribute to improved access for visitors.
